

St Theresa college holds orientation programme

Hans News Service Eluru

THE superior correspondent of St Theresa's College for Women, Mother Ernestine Fernandes has called for coordinated efforts of management, teachers and parents for the development of students.

She participated in the orientation programme organised for the newly admitted first-year students on Thursday. She said that she is very proud to inform that the college's alumni are excelling in various fields in the country

Principal Dr Sr Mercy urged students to set goals from the beginning of the year and work towards achieving the goals. She said that her college is working for the all-round development of the students.

College Vice-Principal Dr Sr Sunila Rani suggested that the use of cell phones should be reduced and awareness about educational matters should be increased in the library.

Controller of Examinations Dr Sr M Suseela explained to the parents and students about the examination system.

Indonesia urged to change norms on import of Indian goods

VIIAYAWADA

MAHATMA Devi and Alice, senior officials from the Embassy of the Republic of Indonesia visited AP Chambers Office here and interacted with the Chambers' office-bearers and members. The officials discussed the bilateral trade opportunities between Indonesia and Andhra Pradesh.

AP Chambers discussed several key issues with the officials and requested the resolution of the issues. During the discussion, AP Chambers mentioned that Corn starch of Indian origin is subject to a 10 percent import duty in Indonesia, while corn starch originating from China enjoys preferential duty treatment.

This is despite Indonesia being a significant importer Senior Indonesian Embassy officials Mahatma Devi and Alice visit AP Chambers Office in Vijayawada to explore bilateral trade opportunities and engage in dialogue with chamber members

- AP Chambers raises concerns about the 10% import duty on Indian-origin corn starch in Indonesia, which lacks the tariff benefits enjoyed by Chinese exports, and seeks its inclusion under AIFTA's preferential list
- The Chambers also urges Indonesia to accept digital Certificates of Origin and abolish the chilli import quota, highlighting the disparity with China's unrestricted chilli exports of corn starch from both countries. Unfortunately, Indian-origin corn starch (HS Code: 11081200) is excluded from the ASEAN-India Free Trade Agreement (AIFTA) preferential tariff list, placing Indian exporters at a disadvantage. The Chambers requested the Indonesia Embassy to consider this issue and support the inclusion of corn starch under the preferential tariff schedule for Indian-origin goods.

AP Chambers also pointed out that while India has moved to an online digital Certificate of Origin system (a certificate required for exports), Indonesian trade authorities are still insisting on the submission of physical copies with ink signature, which is causing delays in delivering the required documents.

The Chambers requested the Indonesian Embassy to take up this issue with the relevant authorities. The Chambers brought to the notice of the officials that Indonesia introduced quota system for import of chillies from India a few years ago, whereas the country does not have any such restriction for import of chillies from China. AP Chambers suggested abolition of the quota system to ensure level playing field for Indian chilli

Tug of war with collector in PTM

Koppara Gandhi Vizianagaram

DURING a joyful Parent-Teacher Meeting (PTM) on Thursday, Collector Dr BR Ambedkar interacted with students at Kumaram KGBV School in Jami Mandal and encouraged them to set clear goals. He emphasised the importance of parents being informed about their children's academic performance and overall development.

He said that this Mega Parent-Teacher Meet, now including private schools and junior colleges, was the second of its kind since the coalition government was formed. He advocated for a supportive learning environment through quality education, midday meals, and essential resources.

He urged students to "Eat well, play well, and study well," and encouraged those with B grades to aim for A grades in the upcoming exams. The event included fun competitions for parents, such as rangoli, lemon-andspoon races, and tug-of-war, in which the Collector himself participated. He concluded the event by awarding prizes and sharing a mid-day meal with students and their families.
