need for discipline and patience among devotees, especially at Shiva temples and other places of worship that witness heavy crowds during this auspicious month. Devotees are strongly advised not to panic, push, or shove one another. They must proceed slowly and in an orderly manner within the queue lines. The SP appealed to

with the police by strictly following the instructions and precautions issued by the Police Department, Endowments Department, and Temple Committees to ensure peaceful darshans.

SP advised to take specific steps to manage the crowds in Kartika picnics and Vanabhojanalu. Organisers must arrange an adequate number of food counters to match the expected number of attendees, he added. SP also suggested the organisers take necessary precautions to prevent electric short circuits and fire accidents in Ayyappa worship.

The SP further stated that in case of any requirement, the concerned authorities, including the Police, Fire, and Revenue Departments, must be informed in advance. SP Narasimha Kishore urged the public to Dial 112 for any police assistance during an emergency.

committee meeting

Hans News Service Guntur

AS part of the capital Amaravati construction project, the Social Welfare wing of APCRDA has formed gender committees under the Self-Help Group network to safeguard women's rights. These committees work towards the prevention of child marriages, prohibition of dowry, and protection of women from domestic violence and sexual harassment.

The gender committee meeting was held at the CRDA office in Tullur under the supervision of the Social Welfare Wing. As part of the meeting, a training programme was organised, attended by over 30 women from 25 villages across the capital region. The programme was conducted under the supervision of CRDA Social Welfare Wing DCDO Borra Srinivasa Rao, and facilitated by gender specialist CH Niteesha.

Speaking on this occasion, Niteesha enlightened the participants on key topics such as laws preventing violence against women, gender equality, the Domestic Violence Act, the Prevention of Sexual Harassment Act, the Protection of Children from Sexual Offences (POCSO) Act, and the Dowry Prohibition Act. She engaged in interactive discussions, answering participants' questions and sharing insights on women's protection mechanisms.
