

Jaladhara-Jalaharathi programme to be crucial in coming years: Collector

- Officials asked to replicate Annamaya district model focusing on interlinking tanks, canals and streams
- Initiative expected to improve groundwater levels, expand cultivation and enhance farmers' incomes

District Collector Dr S Venkateswar speaking at a review meeting on Jaladhara - Jalaharathi in Tirupati on Wednesday. Joint Collector R Govinda Rao is with him.

THE district administration has begun steps to strengthen water resource management with the planned implementation of Jaladhara-Jalaharathi initiative. District Collector Dr S Venkateswar directed the officials to implement the programme in a comprehensive and systematic manner across the district during a review meeting held at the Collectorate on Wednesday.

The Collector said the Jaladhara-Jalaharathi programme would be crucial for the next four to five years. He advised departments to adopt the model successfully implemented in Annamaya district and focus on interlinking tanks, canals and streams to conserve rainwater effectively. Scientific basin-level plans should be prepared in coordination with the irrigation department, he said. Proper implementation would help improve groundwater levels, expand the extent of cultivation and increase farmers' incomes. The programme is also expected to support livestock development and dairy production, reduce electricity consumption and lower government expenditure. It would further help reduce rural migration by creating local employment opportunities, the Collector added. Venkateswar instructed officials to prepare a special 100-day action plan for the programme. Priority works should be identified and implemented in phases. Committees should be formed at village, mandal and district levels to ensure effective execution and monitoring.

SC Commission chairman orders speedy resolution of pending cases in Chittoor

HANS NEWS SERVICE CHITTOOR

SC Commission chairman KS Jawahar speaking at a review meeting in Chittoor on Wednesday. Collector Sumit Kumar and SP Tushar Dudi are also seen.

SC Commission Chairman KS Jawahar directed revenue and police officials to work in coordination and resolve pending cases immediately, stating that land disputes and caste discrimination issues remain high in the Chittoor district.

He conducted a review meeting on Wednesday in Chittoor with senior officials on cases of atrocities against Scheduled Castes and the implementation of welfare schemes. District Collector Sumit Kumar, district SP Tushar Dudi and other officials participated.

Jawahar said he expected the district to develop as a model, but observed that discrimination still continues in new forms at grassroots level. Caste discrimination has not been completely eliminated and is still visible in some areas. Officials have a responsibility to address public grievances without delay. He noted that atrocity cases are higher in Kuppam, Palamaner and Nagari areas.

District Collector Sumit Kumar explained the steps being taken to resolve issues related to SC communities. Major concerns include land disputes, DKT land matters, encroachments and issuance of caste certificates. A special drive is being conducted by the revenue department with village-level inspections to speed up solutions.

He added that special attention is being given to problems in SC colonies, including population pressure, lack of basic amenities and food-related issues, with coordinated action taken through concerned departments.

SP Tushar said special investigations into atrocity cases are being carried out under the supervision of DSP-level officers. Committee members Sriprati Babu, M Biksham, NT Ramanjaneyamma, Secretary Chinna Rayudu, Joint Collector A Rajendran, District Social Welfare Officer Rabbani Basha and others attended the meeting.
