SC questions quota benefits for BC creamy layer

If both parents are IAS officers, why should they have reservations? asks the top court

NEW DELHI

OBSERVING that with educational and economic empowerment there is social mobility, the Supreme Court on Friday questioned the continued grant of reservation benefits to children of economically and educationally advanced families within backward classes. A bench of Justices B V Nagarathna and Ujjal Bhuyan was hearing a plea challenging a Karnataka High Court judgment which upheld the exclusion of the petitioner, whose parents are both state government employees, from reservation. "If both parents are IAS officers, why should they have reservations? With educational and economic empowerment, there is social mobility. "So then again, to seek reservation for the children, we will never get out of it," the bench observed while issuing notice in the matter. The top court remarked that if the parents of students are in good jobs with handsome incomes, then the children should get out of reservation. The apex court said several orders passed by the government already provide for the exclusion of such affluent sections from reservation benefits, but they are being challenged now. "For the Economically Weaker Section and Disadvantaged Group, there is no social backwardness but only economic backwardness. There has to be some balance. Socially and educationally backward, yes, but once the parents have attained a level because of taking advantage of reservation," the bench said. The petitioner was selected for appointment as an assistant engineer (electrical) in the Karnataka Power Transmission Corporation Limited under the reserved category. The District Caste and Income Verification Committee, however, denied him a caste validity certificate after concluding that he fell within the creamy layer. The authorities noted that both parents were government employees and that their combined income exceeded the prescribed creamy layer threshold. The classification of the petitioner as belonging to the creamy layer was based on the income of his parents, who are salaried employees and whose combined income allegedly exceeded Rs 8,00,000. Consequently, the caste certificate issued to the petitioner, certifying him as belonging to the Kuruba community, was revoked. Continued on Page 7

India blocks China's request for dispute panel at world body

NEW DELHI: India has blocked China's request to set up a dispute panel at the WTO in a case that Beijing has filed against New Delhi's support measures for the solar cells, modules, and information technology sectors, an official said. Earlier this month, China made this request to the WTO's (World Trade Organization) dispute settlement body. The request follows the failure of bilateral consultations on reaching a mutually-agreed solution on the dispute filed by China in December last year. The Geneva-based official said that India has blocked the first request of China for the establishment of a panel. China has alleged that India's tariff or import duty on certain technology products, and measures like the use of domestic products over imported goods, discriminate against Chinese goods. Beijing, which is a major exporter of goods under these sectors, had claimed that these support measures and incentives infringe rules pertaining to the WTO's General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade 1994.

CHILL PILL AS TEMP SOARS...!

Beer guzzlers add more fizz to booze biz in state

Chilled beer in high demand, sales jumps in April and May

- High summer temperatures driving sales
- 42L cases of beer were sold until May 21
- Youth consuming beer in place of other drinks at watering holes

HANS NEWS SERVICE HYDERABAD

WITH the temperature hovering between 44 degrees centigrade and nearly 47 degrees C in most districts of Telangana, tippers who believe in the concept of "work hard and party harder" would naturally like to wind up their day by quaffing mug after mug of chilled beer. Some may take a break even before calling it a day by downing draught beer to enjoy its authentic flavour and aroma, crisp taste, smooth mouthfeel, and rich foamy head. Naturally, chilled beer is on high demand during summers. The demand has skyrocketed this time due to scorching heatwaves. Beer sales scaled up in April and May, marking the peak of summer season. In all, 42 lakh cases of beer were sold until May 21, reflecting 18.4 per cent growth as against the sales in the same period last year. In April this year, nearly 20.99 per cent growth was registered in beer sales, with 56,21 lakh cases being sold against 46.46 lakh cases in the corresponding month last year. Due to the scorching heat, people can't wait until afterhours; so, they tend to gulp chilled beer during evening hours or in the afternoon. It is estimated that nearly 60 lakh cases of beer will be sold by the end of May, registering the highest ever beer sales in May. Paradoxically, while extreme heat lifted beer sales, the onset of monsoon could prove to be a party pooper for the state Excise and Prohibition Department.

According to officials of the department, beer sales may go down slightly even before the onset of monsoon, if the temperature plummets over the next week. According to the Indian Meteorological Department's prediction, the South West monsoon will enter the state early this year. The officials said another reason for the increasing beer sales is that breweries have been supplying adequate brewed liquor despite facing many challenges in procuring raw material from different countries amid the West Asia crisis. Continued on Page 7
