Juvvaladinne harbour opened to private operator ahead of launch

HANS NEWS SERVICE
AMARAVATI

WITH the Juvvaladinne fishing harbour in Nellore district nearing completion, the state government has initiated the process of bringing the facility into commercial operation by inviting a private operator to manage and maintain the harbour.

The government has approved the issuance of a Request for Proposal (RFP) to select an operations and maintenance (O&M) operator for the harbour, marking the final step before the project becomes operational.

Spread over 114.13 acres, the harbour has been developed on 47.31 acres with core fisheries and allied infrastructure. Construction has reached 96 per cent completion, and the facility has been designed to serve the region's fishing sector for the next 40 years.

Once operational, the harbour will have the capacity to accommodate 1,250 fishing vessels, including 1,000 boats of 9 metres, 100 each of 12-metre and 15-metre vessels, and 50 boats of 25 metres, with an annual fish handling capacity of 41,250 metric tonnes.

The Andhra Pradesh Maritime Board (APMB) told the government that outsourcing operations has become the preferred model at major fishing harbours. A professional operator would ensure efficient harbour management, maintenance of infrastructure and uninterrupted services to fishermen, while reducing the government's long-term maintenance burden. To attract wider participation from experienced operators, the government has reduced the performance security requirement from Rs 6 crore to Rs 2 crore and extended the bid submission period to 45 days, giving prospective bidders more time to evaluate the project and submit proposals.

The RFP was vetted by the tender evaluation and EPC committee, which recommended inviting bids after government approval.

The Juvvaladinne fishing harbour is expected to significantly strengthen marine infrastructure in coastal Andhra Pradesh by providing organised berthing, fish landing, handling and allied facilities, benefiting fishermen across Nellore district and improving the region's seafood logistics and fishing economy.

Value addition key to boosting coconut farmers' income

RAJAMAHENDRAVARAM

PRINCIPAL Secretary (Food Processing) Chiranjeevi Chowdary said that coconut farmers' incomes could increase by 15 to 20% through value addition instead of selling raw produce alone. He stressed that products such as desiccated coconut powder, flakes, snacks, coconut milk, tender coconut water, coconut jaggery, coconut sugar, activated charcoal and bio-products offer significant business opportunities.

Emphasising the need to strengthen coconut-based value addition and micro enterprises, the AP Food Processing Society, in association with the Coconut Development Board and the Coir Board, organised a one day State-level seminar on coconut cultivation, productivity enhancement, and the promotion of coconut based industries at Manjeera Convention Hall here on Thursday. Chiranjeevi Chowdary inaugurated the seminar by lighting the ceremonial lamp along with AP Food Processing Society CEO Dr Shekhar Babu Geddam and Coconut Development Board Deputy Director Dr Manjunatha Reddy.

Addressing the gathering, Chowdary said agriculture and allied sectors contribute nearly 35% to the State's Gross Domestic Product. AP ranks fourth in the country in coconut cultivation and production while securing the top position in productivity. More than one lakh hectares are under coconut cultivation in the State, producing nearly 175 crore coconuts annually. He said the State government aims to facilitate the establishment of 100 to 125 coconut based micro enterprises during the current financial year. Interested entrepreneurs will receive subsidies, technical assistance and training under the PMFME, MIDH convergence and Coconut Development Board schemes. He encouraged youth to take up agri-business and agri-tech ventures, stating that sustainable earnings of Rs 50,000 to Rs 70,000 a month are possible through rural enterprises.
